Arlington High School

Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

Now with thoughts of graduation upon us, the lamp of learning shines with unusual radiance. This radiance is not a new experience for us however; we have seen it many times before. We saw it the day many of our classmates ascended the stage to receive their coveted honor keys. We saw it every time one of our classmates received word that he had been granted a scholarship by the college of his choice. It shone behind all our accomplishments of the past four years. Yes, we have seen it shine radiantly; but we have also, at times, seen it lose some of its radiance and begin to flicker. But each time the flicker rekindled; it grew in intensity, and today has reached its summit. Now as we prepare to leave this home which has nurtured our knowledge, we are confident that the lamp will continue to cast its radiance on us, lighting the various paths our lives may follow.

Dedication

Mrs. Noyes and Mrs. Petty chat over coffee at Howard's, the faculty "hang-out", where many school problems are solved.

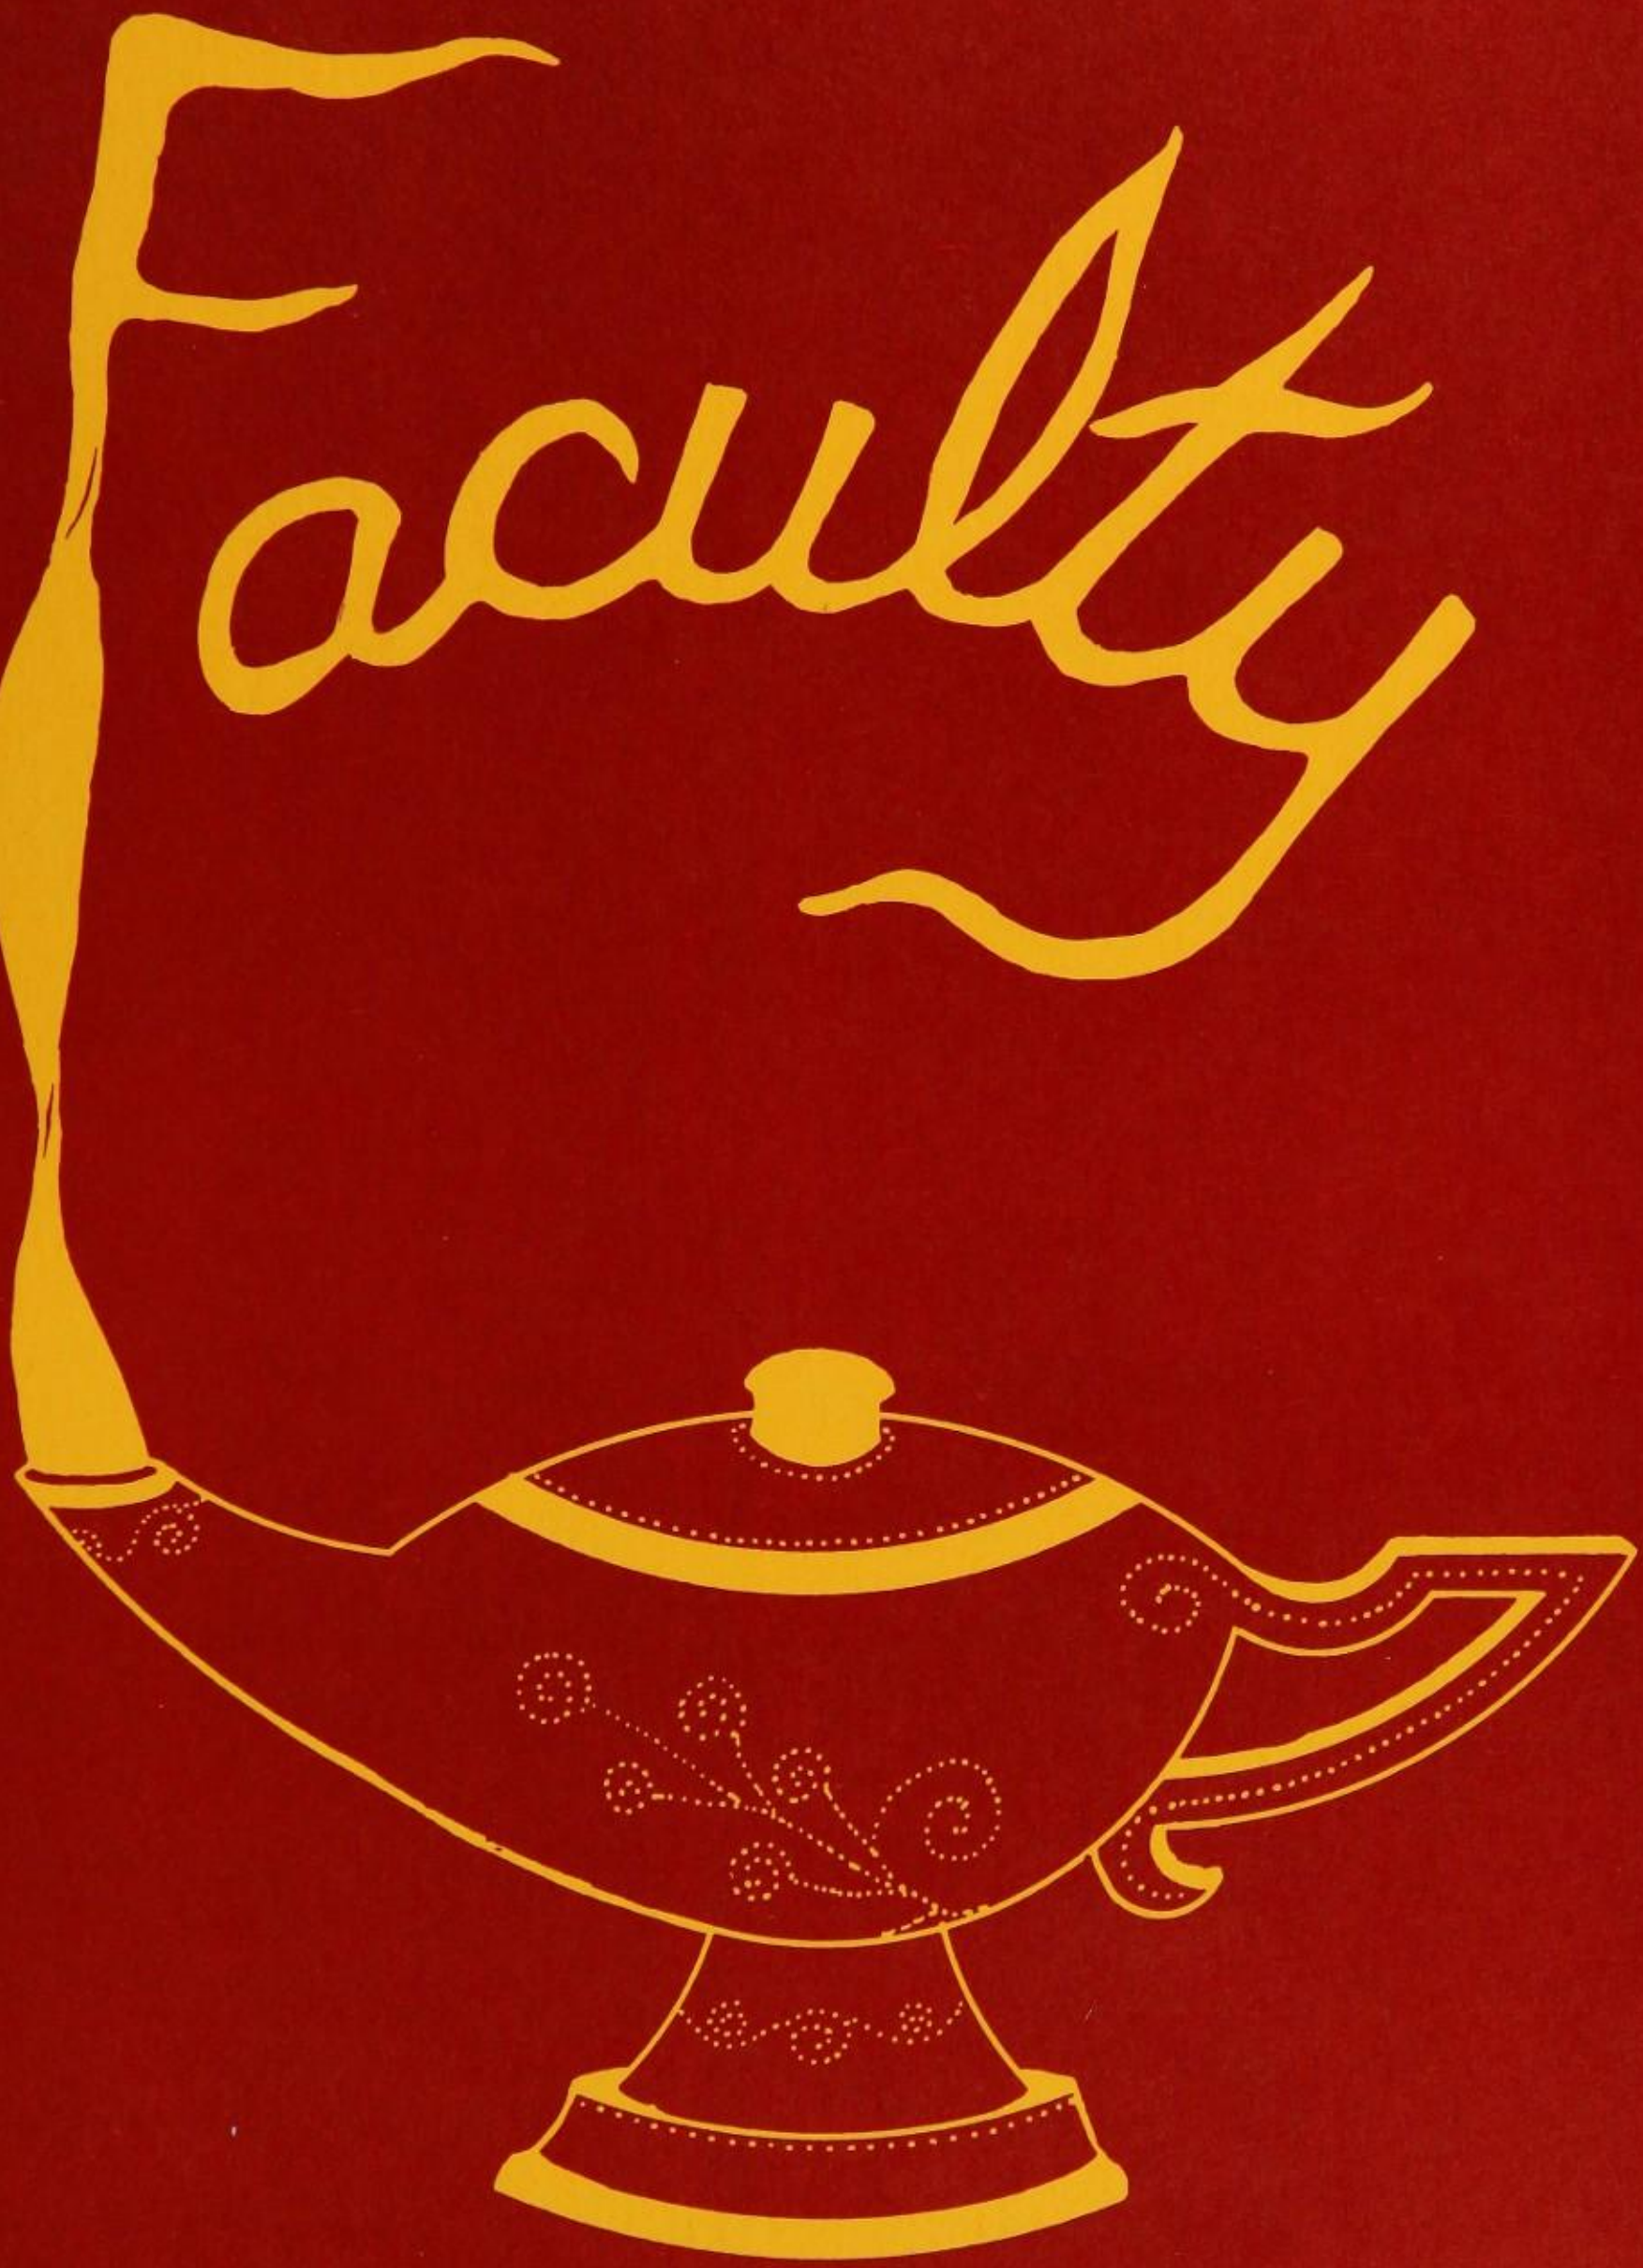
Because the quest for knowledge is the theme of our yearbook, it is appropriate that we dedicate the 1960 Anchors to two of those teachers who have aided us in this quest.

We shall never forget Mrs. Petty's intensive drill on the mechanics and techniques of writing which helped us to analyze, to organize, and to substantiate. The lectures and advice given from the high stool in the front of her room will long be remembered by our class.

From Mrs. Noyes, we learned responsibility, dependability, and self-expression. The podium, dangling glasses, and jangling prop-room keys will always remind us of her.

To these two teachers, so very interested in our welfare, we proudly dedicate our yearbook.

Faculty



It is the province of knowledge to speak, and it is the privilege of wisdom to listen.

Oliver Wendell Holmes

Administration

The need for post high school training has never been so apparent as it is in this present day of automation. As a result of technological advances, many unskilled and semi-skilled occupations will soon cease to exist. On the other hand, many highly trained workers will be needed and the demand for scientists, engineers, and mathematicians will increase.

It has been said that electronic computers can "think" like the human brain, whereas we know that computers have neither human will nor imagination; and that even in the age of automation all constructive thinking, inventions, and new discoveries will be products of able and educated minds.

For those of you who are not planning to pursue formal education at a college, university, or specialized school, there are bountiful opportunities for self-improvement and advancement right within our own community. Many industries offer in-service training programs for employees, numerous valuable courses are available in Adult Education Programs, and many colleges and universities are already offering televised courses for credit.

For the past four years your education has been our responsibility. However we will not feel that we have discharged one of our most important obligations unless we have impressed upon you the need for some further training which will provide you with useful skills to enable you to reach a higher degree of personal satisfaction and security.

We sincerely hope that each of you will assume his responsibility, and we feel confident that the many accomplishments of the class of 1960 are indications of your future success.

Harold C. Storm,
Superintendent of Schools

Donald J. Nelson,
Senior High Principal

Walter R. Neidhardt,
Junior High Principal

Donald J. Nelson, Senior High School Principal; Harold C. Storm, Superintendent of Schools; Walter R. Neidhardt, Junior High School Principal.

The Board of Education works on the plans for the new school. H. Morris McComb, John Peirpont, R. Lewis Townsend, Harold C. Storm, Oscar D'Luhosch, Russell Hadden, and Raymond Yerry carefully study the architects' blueprints.

The constant effort of the Arlington Board of Education has provided the students of this school district with the finest educational facilities.

During this past year the members of the Board spent many hours in planning and contracting for the construction of the new high school. The completion of the addition to the Raymond Avenue School also was the result of their endeavors. The Board worked closely with the Citizens Committee to bring about this program for better education in the near future.

The Class of 1960 wishes to express its gratitude and to acknowledge the work of the Board of Education, for these men are the backbone of the progress in the Arlington School District.

Board of Education

Standing: John Reed, Raymond Yerry, John Pierpont, Oscar D'Luhosch (President), R. Lewis Townsend (clerk), Perry Ferris, John Bronson, Russell W. Hadden. Seated: Harold C. Storm.

Philip G. Swartz, Counselor; Margaret I. Byrne, Director; Edward T. Bonahue, Counselor.

Guidance

Larry Meyer's conference with Miss Byrne is serious business. for they are discussing his plans for college.

Mr. Bonahue and Mr. Swartz relax for a moment for conversation in the outer office, but Mrs. Maier's typewriter clicks on busily.

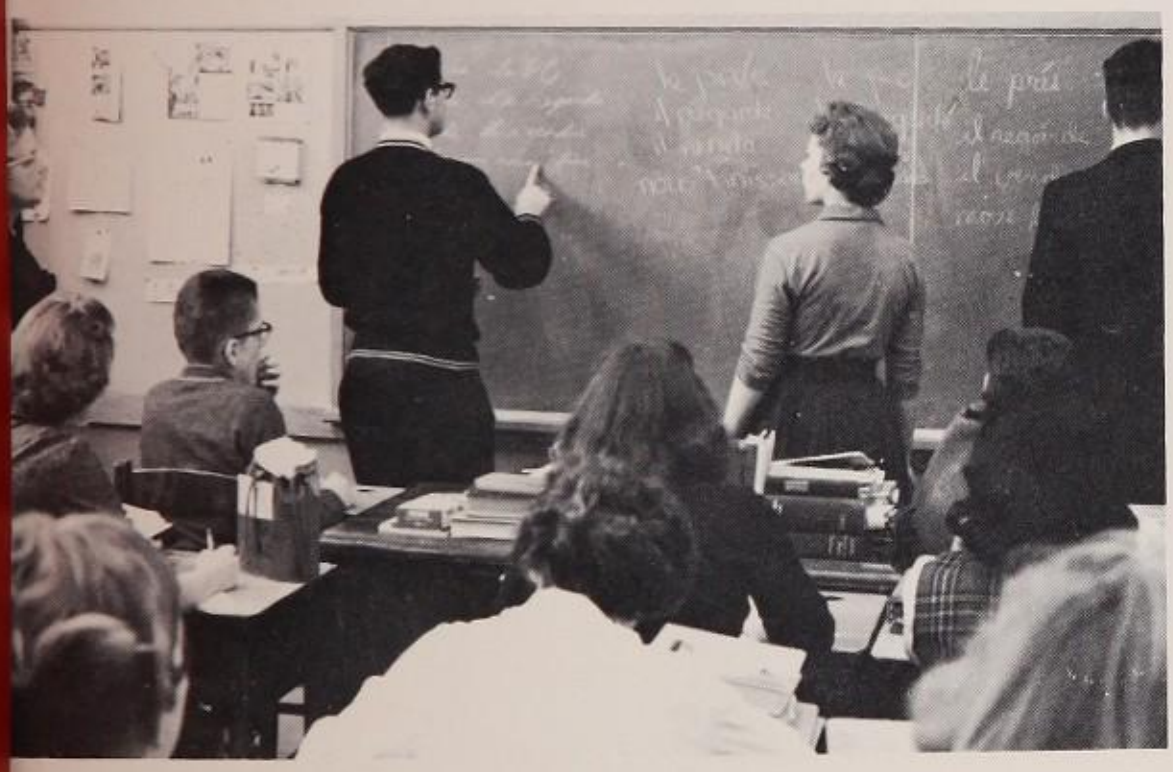
Academics

It is the peculiarity of knowledge that those who really thirst for it always get it.

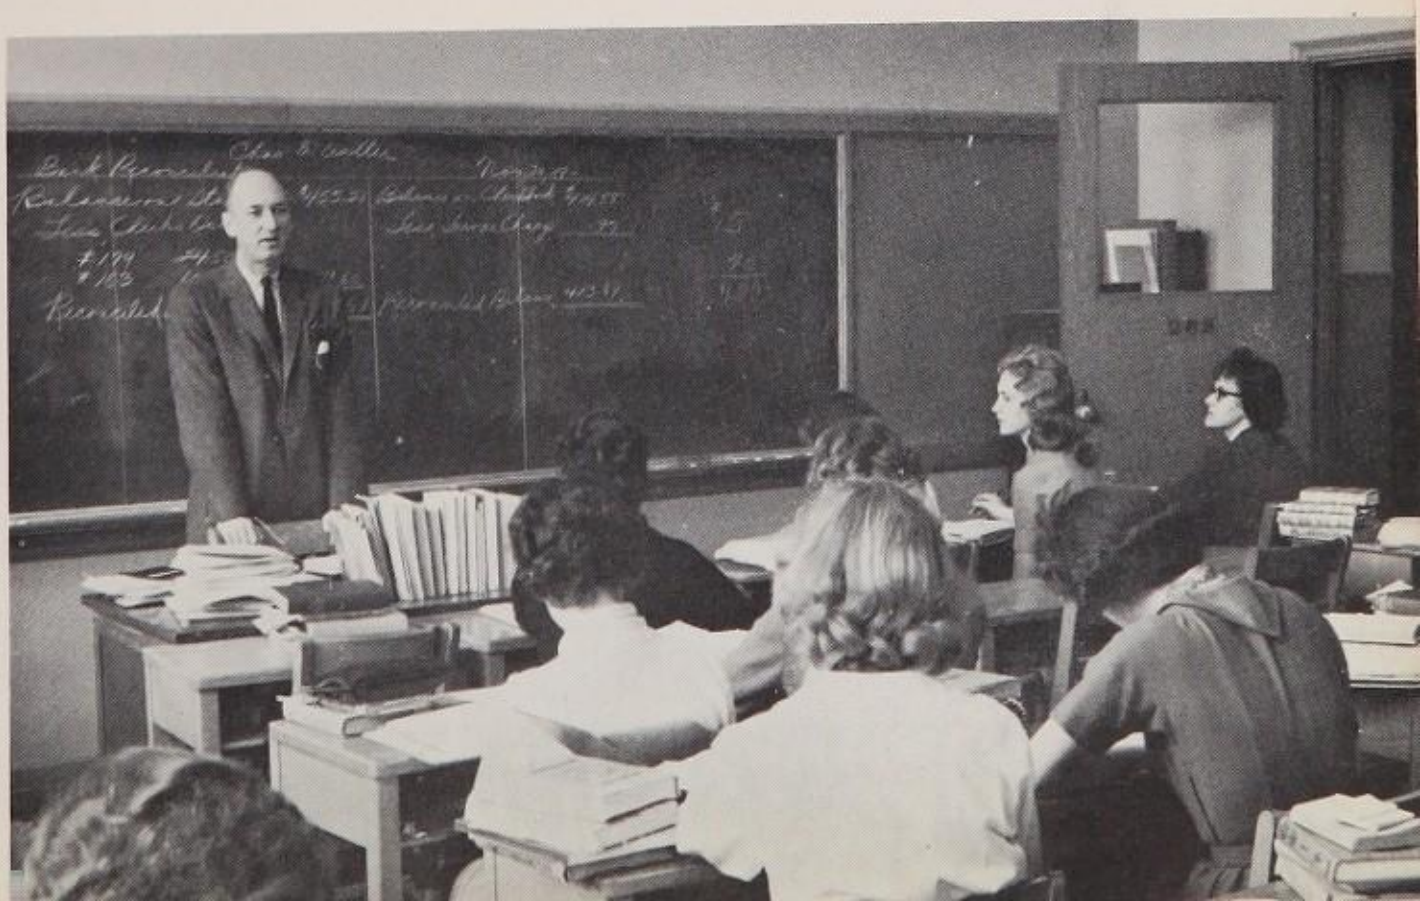
Richard Jefferies

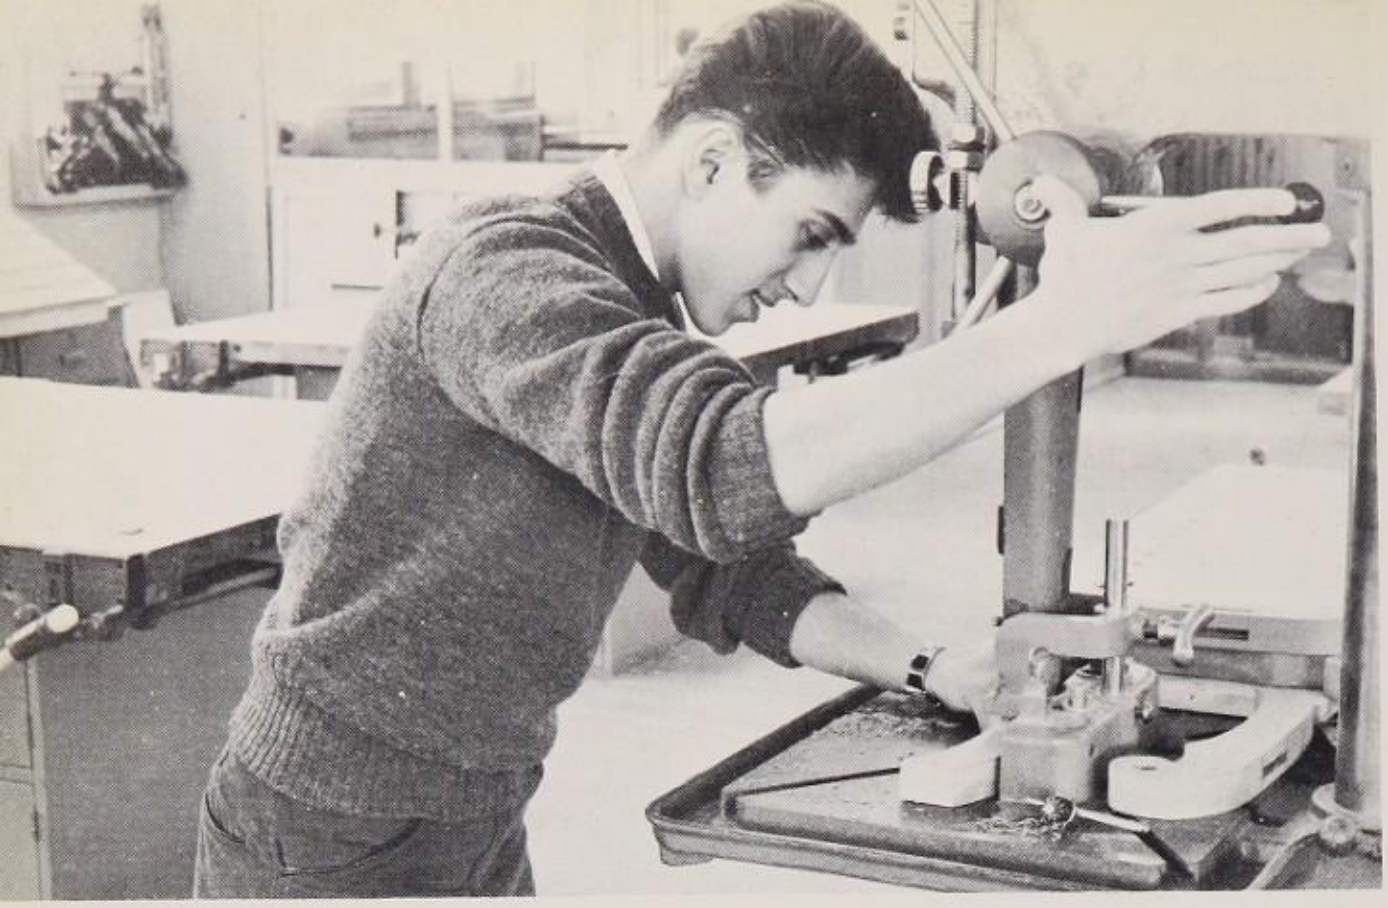
Have you ever been hungry second period and smelled the tantalizing odors drifting from the homemaking room? The members of Mrs. O'Connell's food preparation class are whipping up some delicious dishes. The girls learn meal planning, food preparation, and table setting. During March the class participates in the kitchen planning contest, planning and building kitchens out of materials supplied by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company. Here the girls are eating the soup they prepared earlier in class.



Parlez-vous, any one? If you can't, join Mrs. Kirby and her French I class. Here Mrs. Kirby is instructing Howie Regan, Dottie Addor, and Chris Throop in present and passe compose tenses of regular verbs. In first year classes an introduction to French civilization and grammar is covered. Oral drill and reading practice help to make for language proficiency.

"No assignment for tomorrow; it's a holiday!" This announcement from Mr. Stearns to a class in Business Law was dampened only by the marks on the test papers just returned. Business Law is a required course for a special business-regents diploma. The course includes the study of the laws and principles used in various types of business.





While working on his project, Larry Fauci uses a morticing attachment on a drill press. This equipment, one of the many features of the shop, is used primarily for drilling square holes. Larry, as many of the other shop students, is hard at work on his project which, when completed, will be a mahogany foot stool.

Included in the varied studies of plants and animals, biology students examine slides to see body structures and functions. Here R. Crawford and friend examine slides to finish their laboratory manuals, projects of great importance to the students. Besides examing slides under microscopes, biology students learn about the human body, various diseases, the animal and plant kingdoms, and the principles of evolution and heredity.

One of the many projects of metal shop is aluminium casting. Sand molds are made and molten aluminium is poured into them. Then the molds are put into an oven and heated to a temperature of 1450 degrees. After cooling, the molds are removed and the aluminium objects are buffed. One of the final steps includes filing, as F. Porter is doing to his project.

The agricultural courses give students instruction of a useful and practical nature. By means of field trips, home projects, and work experience the program prepares the students for farming occupations. Here Mr. Lacks explains the elements of distinguishing and grading different types of apples to one of the agricultural classes which appears to be listening attentively.

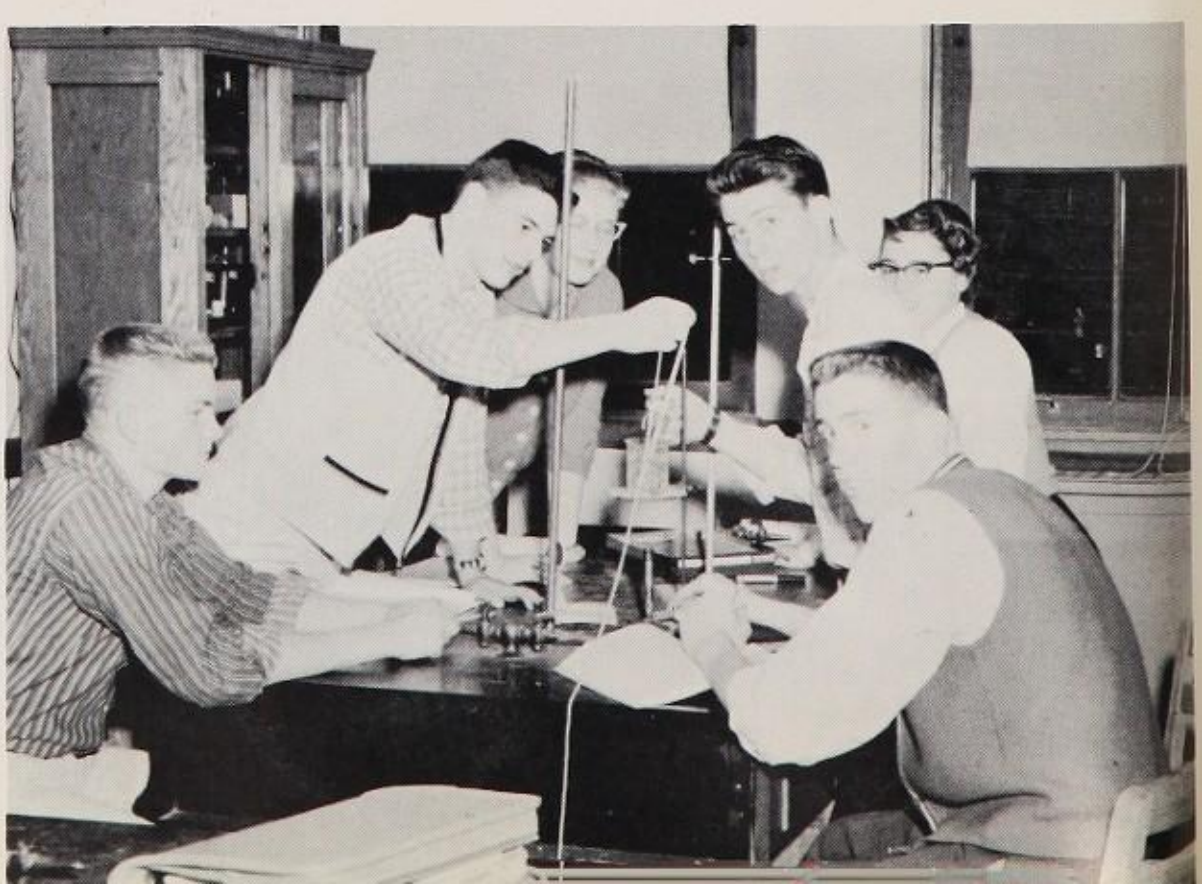
The tasks of the study hall teacher are quite varied, to say the least. They include such chores as taking attendance, keeping silence, and seeing that some work is done. In some instances though, the teacher lends a helping hand to those who request aid. In this case, Mr. Graham explains a troublesome math problem to J. Luzzi and S. Wright during a cafeteria study hall.

Representing stained glass windows by using cellophane is child's play for our budding young artists V. Freni, J. Gasparro, and N. Varney. They seem to be working diligently on their projects. Encouraging our future DaVincis is Mrs. Hawley. A complete program of arts and crafts and the organization of our bulletin boards keep our ambitious art students busy.

Among the courses of the Industrial Arts Department is a class in General Electricity. Fundamentals of circuits, currents, and motors are taught while experiments are used to demonstrate. D. Dean writes a report here, while T. Hanaburg, T. Daly, F. Lotz, and A. Crum examine radio circuits, vital elements in radios. In the background, ready for use, is the amateur radio station which the class built.

Mr. Borkowski teaches the principles of graphing a straight line to an Elementary Algebra class. By using examples, he is showing that the general linear equation is $Y = MX + B$. In Elementary Algebra students also learn to work with the basic principles of algebraic addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division. This subject provides an introduction to trigometric functions, factor theorems and quadratic equations.

"New Einsteins in the Making". These are the students taking Physics, one of the courses offered in the field of science. The course deals with mechanics, heat, electricity, sound, and energies. This work requires mathematical ingenuity, displayed by T. Briggs, B. Tyson, B. Borchers, S. Baright, J. Wigand, and A. Credle in an experiment with the organization of forces. The Physics lab gives the necessary aid in achieving a successful experiment.



Girls in Mrs. Ranucci's 8th grade gym class prepare to do their calisthenics. This is a regular part of the gym program, and in spite of the many groans, it keeps the girls fit. These girls are warming up for a game of basketball later in the period. In addition to calisthenics and intramural sports, the girls are tested on regulations of the games.

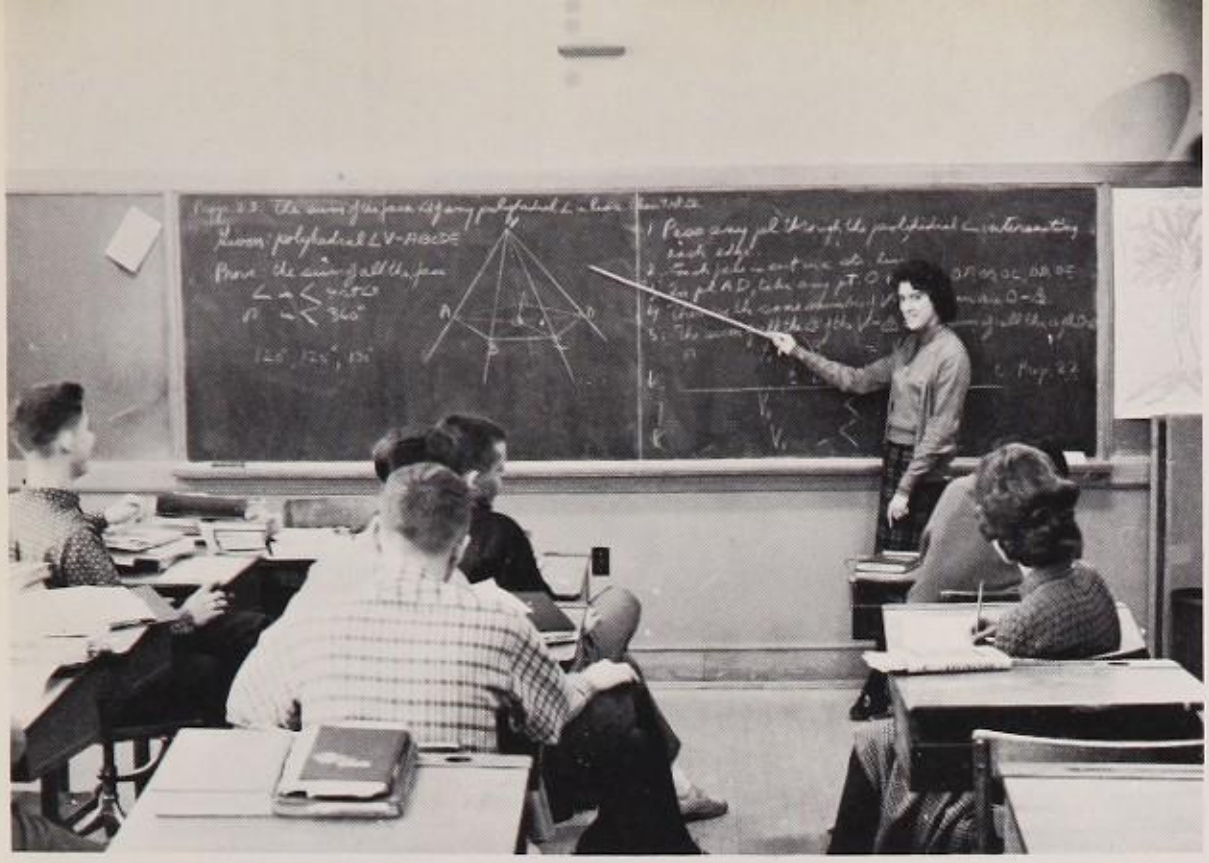
L. Freer and R. Wheatley conduct an experiment on weights and pulleys in front of Mr. Knopp's General Science class. This is one of the thirty experiments written and submitted by the freshmen at the end of the year in this required course. Demonstrations put on by the students help both those observing and those performing the experiments to understand the principles more fully.

N. Keelor, J. Brusie, G. Oates, and J. Kedzielawa explore a timeline in Mrs. Schiavone's World History class, as G. Renzo and D. Bell locate Africa on the globe for the rest of the students. Daily news reports and location studies are a vital part of the class routine in 203, and they help stimulate the students' interest in the affairs of the day.

A map of Africa exhibiting the various products of the Dark Continent is the special project of Nancy Kelty for Mrs. Lipschutz's Citizenship Education class. Freshmen are required to take this course in which they study world geography and basic economic problems. Current events are applied to the class work of the day and many extra projects enable students to demonstrate their potentials.

"Turn right! Back up straight! Cramp the wheel more!" Mr. Tripp urges patiently and frequently. Driver-training includes the operation and maintenance of automobiles. Safety and levelheadedness are emphasized. K. Robison is ready to leave the school lot, while N. Faircloth, B. Post, and E. Alulis await their turn. Mr. Tripp insures the safety of all by means of the car's dual control.

Regularly scheduled library periods are part of the English courses of A.H.S. Under the direction of Miss Clow and their teacher, Mr. Duggan, a tenth-year English class learns the various types of library tools and their uses. In addition, students learn to appreciate varied selections of prose and poetry, drill on correct grammar usage, and write many compositions.

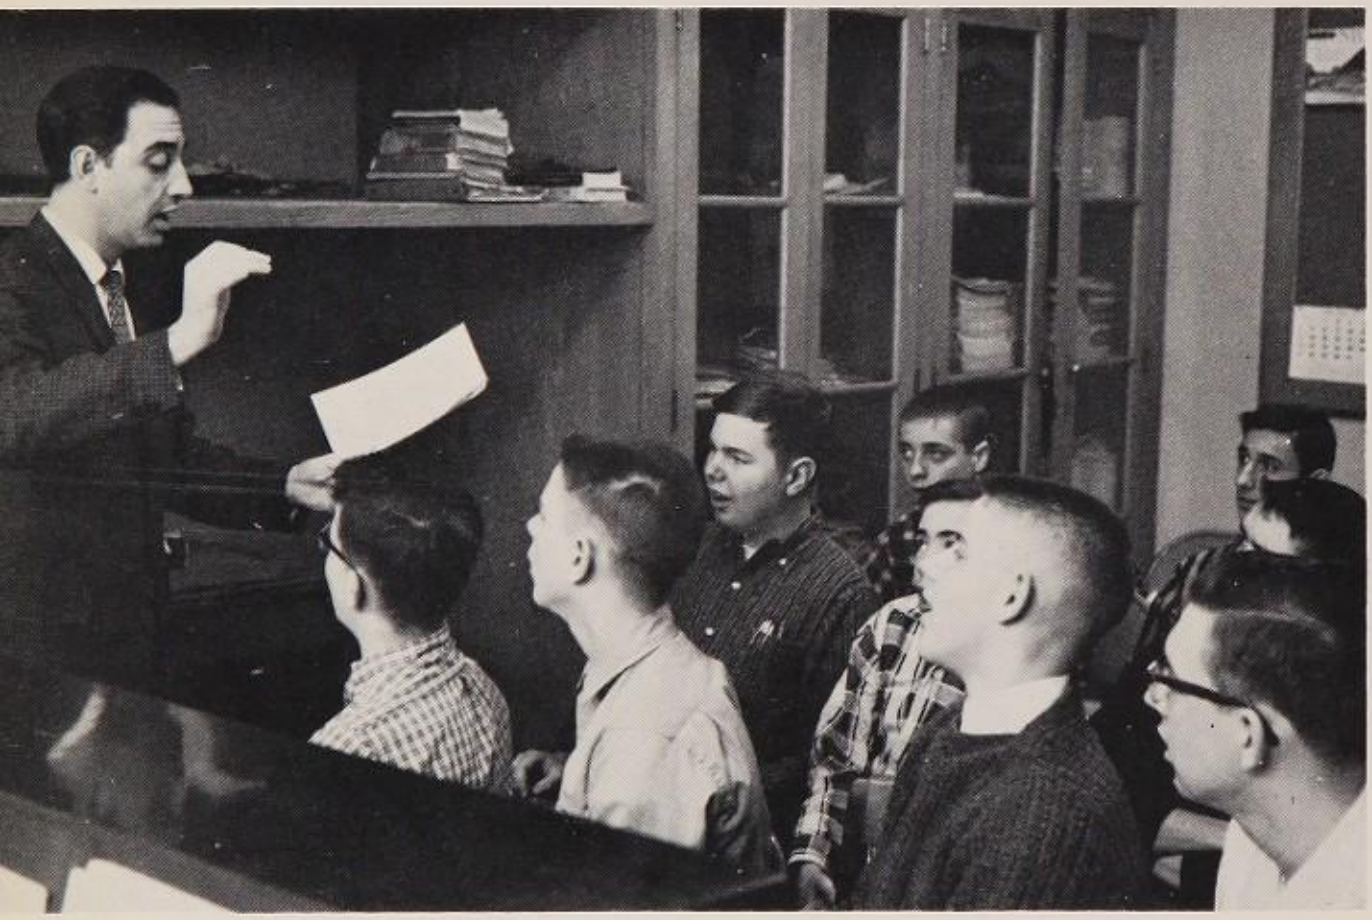


V. Krug, with the use of Miss Flint's ever-present pointer, shows how to solve a problem in Solid Geometry. The theorem to be proved: The sum of the face angles of any polyhedral angle is less than the four right angles. In this half-year course, spatial relations, solid figures and volumes are studied by advanced math students.

Language classes were introduced to the use of electronic equipment during the past year and profited greatly by their experience Students of Miss Vanasco's Second Year Spanish class gather around the tape recorder in an informal huddle made necessary by the short wires of the earphones. With great concentration they listen and strive to reproduce accurately the flow of conversation.

L. Crane, T. Royster, T. Grant, P. Fanelli and J. Tretheway study a trapezius muscle under the direction of Mr. Lacey. This muscle is located in the upper back and is connected to the shoulder and collar bone. Learning about the parts of the human body, their functions, and diseases, makes up the course in Hygiene. This required course closely remembles Biology with the exception that it is limited in scope.

Citizenship education in the Eighth grade is an intensive review of the history and geography of our country, and Miss Phelan's thorough drill makes "quiz kids" of her students. In addition to learning textbook facts, these boys and girls take pride in their individual projects, booklets on the fifty states and on the famous men of American history.



Like all choral sections, the basses of the Junior High Chorus receive regular group instruction from their director. Mr. LaFalce places special emphasis on clear enunciation and full round tones, and so these boys repeat a phrase over and over to achieve the desired effect. The value of such emphasis is clearly evident in the excellent concerts of the group.

In her Eighth grade English classes Mrs. Moore prepares students for the double-session Regents exam in June. Points of emphasis in the course include grammar, punctuation, prose writing, reading for comprehension and pleasure, penmanship, and spelling. Here R. Hoe and B. Wernick practice writing outlines on the blackboard as classmates carefully observe the correct methods to be used.

A.F.S. Goes to Europe

Last summer was especially eventful for Don Marchese, our A.F.S. student. One summer day eight hundred excited and happy students left New York Harbor for their destinations in Europe and the Middle East. They spent eight memorable days aboard the liner where they had language lessons, and forums, plus dances and swims. Finally they arrived at Rotterdam, Holland, where they enjoyed a day of sightseeing and tasting new delicacies. After travelling through Holland, Germany, and Switzerland, Don arrived in Italy, his destination and the home of his first family. The two boys, seventeen and twelve, and their parents taught him Italian and skin diving, and showed him the historic areas. Leaving this family who lived on the Adriatic Sea, he crossed the beautiful Apennine Mountains to his second family's home on the Mediterranean. After a month of water skiing, travelling, playing tennis, and meeting people, he left for Rome to join forty-six other students for a ten day tour of Italy. After finishing his very educational and enjoyable tour, Don returned to the U.S.

Cordiality and graciousness characterized the Paolucci family which welcomed Donny to their summer home in Ancona.

GENERAL

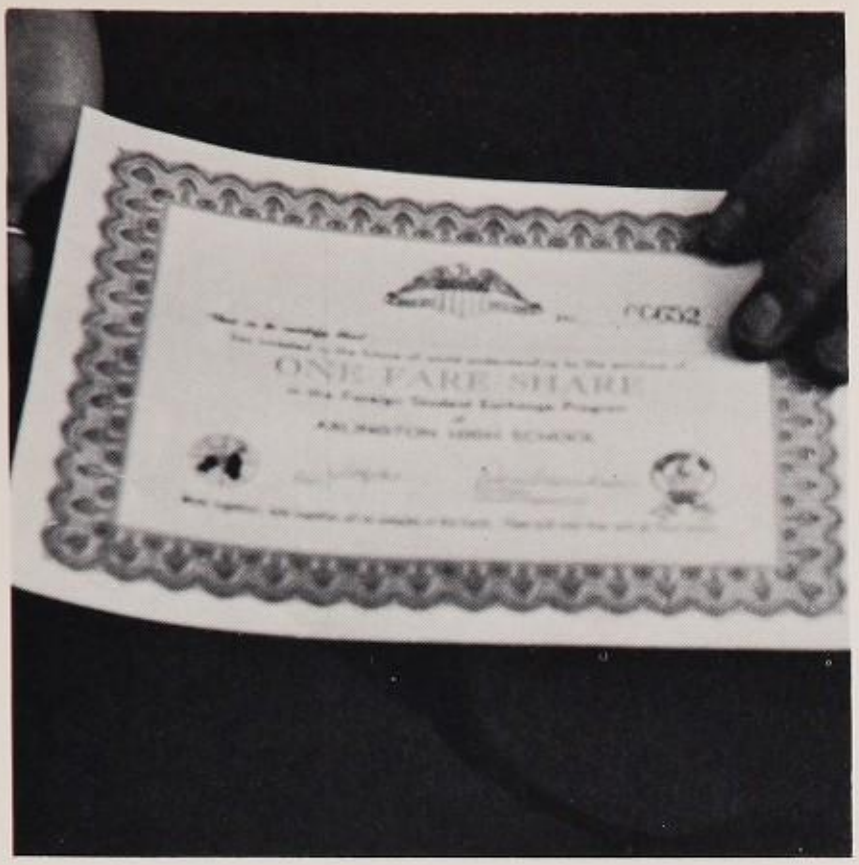
Democracy is the keynote.

Don Marchese and Bruce Tyson see green from the contributions of the four high school classes to the A.F.S. campaign.

The word "democratic" characterizes the most important organization of our school, the G.O., which under the guidance of Mr. Stewart and its officers works to better our school standards.

Included in their many activities are the sending of an Exchange Student to Europe, the forming of a Varsity Club, the addition of a school store and glass bulletin board, and the supporting of a War Orphan. New projects are the sponsorship of more and better assemblies, establishment of better inter-school relations, and the adoption of a traditional school ring. Social activities include supporting a Twirp Dance, a Stock Holders Dance, and the Junior Class Ring Dance.

Each homeroom is represented by two students at every meeting. Our G.O. is truly the governing body of Arlington High.



"Walk together, talk together all ye peoples of the earth. Then, and only then, can you have peace." Arlington's Fare Share furthers world friendship.

The A.F.S. dollar sign measures our goal of $1500. S. Phelan here paints in the first day's total of the successful campaign.

DRAMATIC

Many are required for play productions.

Unusual situations arise in many of the Dramatic Club presentations and "A Private Affair" is no exception. A. Credle seeks K. Pearson's assistance in solving his psychological problems.

"And one man in his time plays many parts" . . . This is especially true of Dramatic Club members who all act, whether this action takes place on the stage, in the prop room, or in the dressing rooms, transforming sixteen year old actors into sixty year old men with a few strokes of skillfully applied pencil. This year has been a rewarding one for both the troupers and the audiences. Productions have included several one-act plays and the popular comedy, The Solid Gold Cadillac. As a reward for a job well done, the members shifted roles and became the audience as they viewed the colorful opera Carmen, and the Broadway production, The Miracle Worker.

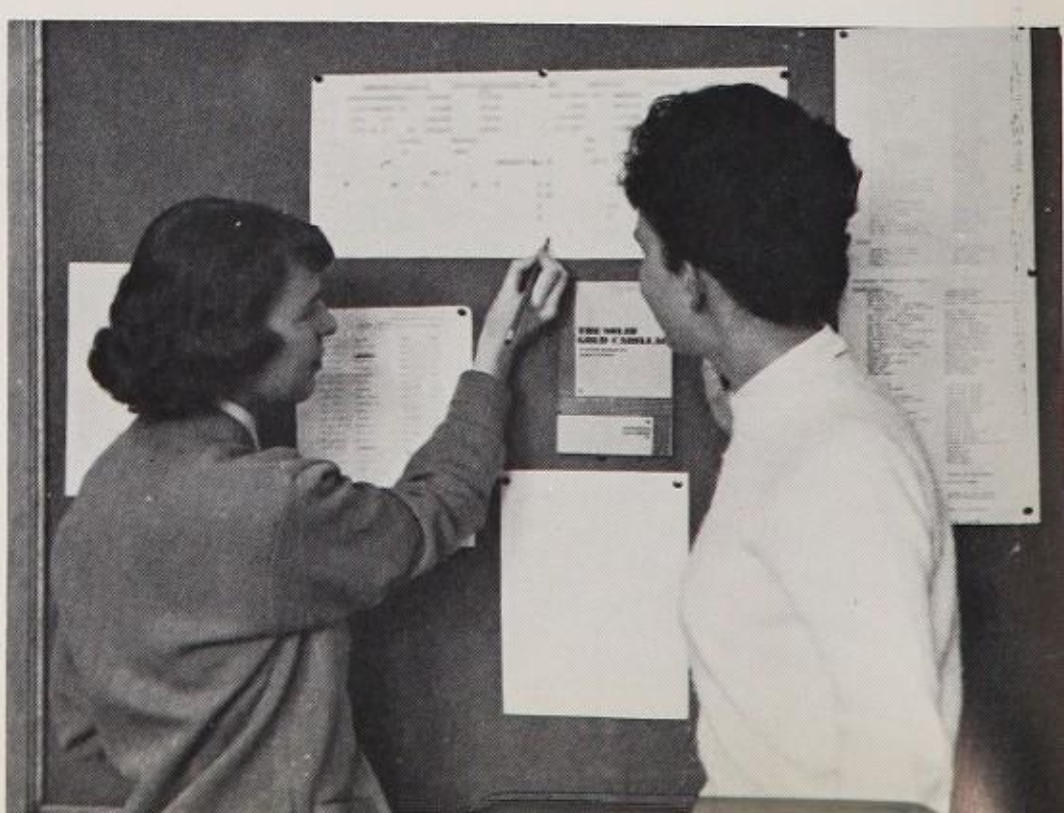
Thespians

Their many hours of toil are rewarded.

"Act well your part; there all the honor lies" is well known by all Thespians as it is their motto. This society, which is the honor association of the Dramatic Club, is devoted to the advancement of Dramatic Arts. Knowing that hard work earns a reward, students work hard to earn the ten Thespians credits required for membership. These credits may be earned by work in the annual three act play or in the many one act plays performed during the year.

"Is this a mess, or what?" The prop room is in its usual state of confusion as Dramatic Club members L. Starr, P. Stowe, D. Speckenbach, S. Root, and K. Grouchau probe the props.

"He knew there was a rehearsal today!" D. Speckenbach and C. Waligora check the all-important chart blocking in the lines of individual actors in various scenes of "Cadillac".



Curtain Going Up!

"Excellent, Miss L'Arriere; all right with you boys?" T. John Blessington (K. Wachenfeld) and Alfred Metcalfe (N. Varney) scrutinize Miss L'Arriere (K. Pearson).

"Work, work, and more work." D. Russell puts the finishing touches on one of the numerous publicity angles for "Cadillac".

"And I want those other dummies in here, too." Mrs. Partridge (B. Tokay) fights back aided by Miss Shotgraven (S. Horan).

"We were at the Hotel Barkley in Philadelphia," Mrs. Partridge explains to interested newsmen.

Debate Club

Their speeches add to the glory of A.H.S.

"Honorable judge, worthy opponents, ladies and gentlemen. In my speech I shall endeavor to prove that the recommendations of Dr. Conant for secondary education in America should be adopted."

So spoke the debaters at Hamilton College in the fall of the year. They repeated the words a week later at Cortland and each time achieved major victories. In November, the Freshmen got their first taste of the wonderful world of words at Newburgh where they gained first place for the third successive year.

Debators prove themselves excellent legislators at the four Student Congresses held during the school year. There they strive to pass bills which they deem necessary for the well being of the world, nation, or state, as well as to gain recognition by winning the coveted bronze metal.

N.F.L.

Debating is their business.

N.F.L. members N. Christ, and C. Coelen take time out from lunch to discuss the Rochester Tournament with Miss Walsh.

"This is to certify that _____ having qualified through praiseworthy participation in high speech activities has been elected a member of the chapter at Arlington High School and is entitled to the privileges pertaining to membership in this organization."

A certificate thus inscribed is the dearest possession of every N.F.L. member. These people have been the most active members of the Debate Club, and have accumulated the required number of points for election to this honor society.

The most important event to N.F.L. members is the annual State Tournament on the campus of Syracuse University. Here members engage in contests in humorous interpretation, dramatic presentation, oratory, original oratory, extemperaneous speaking, and debate. Through this tournament the best speakers in the state are chosen to continue in national competition.

Vera Tinkelman, Co-editor of the ANCHORS, helps compose the dedication for our yearbook at one of our many Saturday work sessions.

The goal—to put out a yearbook. Sometimes this seemed unattainable. They started with the plans, including the theme. Often they made little progress; ideas were few and far between. The dummy seemed huge but the largest problem was money and where to get it. Patrons and more patrons were needed. The money dribbled in and there was always the fear that it would stop coming. Then came the brainstorming; copy and pictures needed, more copy and more pictures. All this work had to be finished to meet the deadlines which always seemed to arrive too soon. Finally the yearbook was distributed to the students. Exclamations of delight were heard as the students received and looked through the new unusual 1960 yearbook.

ARLINGTONIAN

Truth is on the march-

Budding journalists J. Aaron, M. Karwasinski, and B. Borchers check the final deadline copy of the ARLINGTONIAN.

Hand out assignments, write editorials, proofread, set dummy, will it never end? This year it was decided that it was impossible for one person to do. The result . . . co-editors. This system worked out successfully and a bigger and better Arlingtonian was produced. The Press Club launched a campaign for a new school symbol. In the spring, the annual literary contest was held with gratifying results. Throughout the year the pulse of Arlington was recorded for prosperity. To the students came the important developments on the college problem, the results of sports events, and the opinions of their classmates. The gossip editors, their identity a closely guarded secret, knew all and spoke all. 1960 was a banner year for the Press Club.

First Row: J. Nagy, N. Senk, S. Nygren, D. Speckenbach, D. Tower, G. Nazzaro, D. Vrooman, S. Tinkleman, J. Sleight. Second Row: S. Phelan, P. Magennis, J. Maher, J. Ringwald, G. Pittala, G. ...and nothing can stop it.

"Do you think we should censor this article?" Editor J. Aaron seems to be asking Mrs. Gilday.

The seniors willingly pay their dimes to learn the latest news and gossip in the ARLINGTONIAN.

S. Fiore, M. Erett, and J. Kilmer run off and collate copies of the ARLINGTONIAN with professional efficiency.

Another recent addition to Arlington's long list of student clubs and activities is the recently founded Science Club. This organization is to promote scientific interest in those intending to pursue a career in science or mathematics.

Order is their key.

The conqueror of confusion, the Anchor Squad, plays an indispensable part in our school by preserving order in the halls, in assemblies, and in fire drills.

Mixed Chorus

"From Bach to Bop" would very nicely symbolize the repetoire of this year's Mixed Chorus. With the varied selections chosen by their capable and extremely skillful director, Mr. La Falce, the 115 voices prepared a Christmas concert and a Spring Music Festival which was musically stupendous. This lively group, together with the 200 voices of the Junior High Choir, bubbled over with enthusiasm and spirit for making music.

Several ensembles, formed by subdivisions of the choruses, in order to add variety to the choral presentation, proved very successful. The enthusiasm, the exciting choice of music, and the variations in presenting the program, combined to produce one of the most successful years of choral accomplishments in the history of Arlington High School.

Front Row: S. Kerman, K. Constanable, P. Fanelli, B. Seaman, T. Phelan, K. Heresniak, R. Simon, M. Emery, Mr. Kornbluth. Second Row: B. Dederer, L. Kovacs, A. Starr, S. Weiss, T. Butland, L. Orchestra

Music develops a taste for finer things.

The Orchestra has one of its many practice sessions before an assembly.

Playing music for the enjoyment of many people is the favorite occupation of the Arlington High School Orchestra. The orchestra, composed mainly of strings, was organized nine years ago. Under the expert leadership of Mr. Emmanuel Kornbluth, these enthusiastic musicians learn to play classical and modern compositions. Practicing weekly the group prepared for the annual Christmas and Spring Concerts, in which they performed beautifully. The orchestra enters into activities that enrich their musical interest. The group participated in the area, county, and state sectionals. In order to learn chamber music, a violin and string quartet was formed. Such activities offered these young musicians an opportunity to acquire new techniques. The orchestra, constantly enlarging, is an organization of which Arlington can be proud.

First Row: D. Swartz, S. Cook, M. Credle, B. Wernick, D. Sitomer, K. Webster, J. Burgess. Second Row: J. Delamater, R. Wells, D. Wheatly, R. Marshall, B. Stufer. Third Row: T. Corbin, L. Kovacs, G. Ahlers, S. Weiss, B. Robinson, M. Embree.

With mellophone and trumpets, G. Harrison, B. Dederer, and C. Verro tune up for band practice.

Band

Stirring songs spark school

The chords of "We Want a Touchdown" and "Night Train", played by the band, helped stir the high spirit of A.H.S. this year. The band attended all but one football game with a brand new selection of songs, marches and formations. The band, under the leadership of Mr. Husted, also participated in the Spring Concert Program. With a blend of novelty tunes, classical selections, and marches, the band was well received by the parents and students. For the first time in many years, the band has begun to march in community parades. It has marched in the Hudson-Champlain Parade and in the Memorial Day Parade. The band is a worthy and a proud representative of Arlington High School.

With daily practice and hard work, H. Sackett hopes to play the flute successfully.

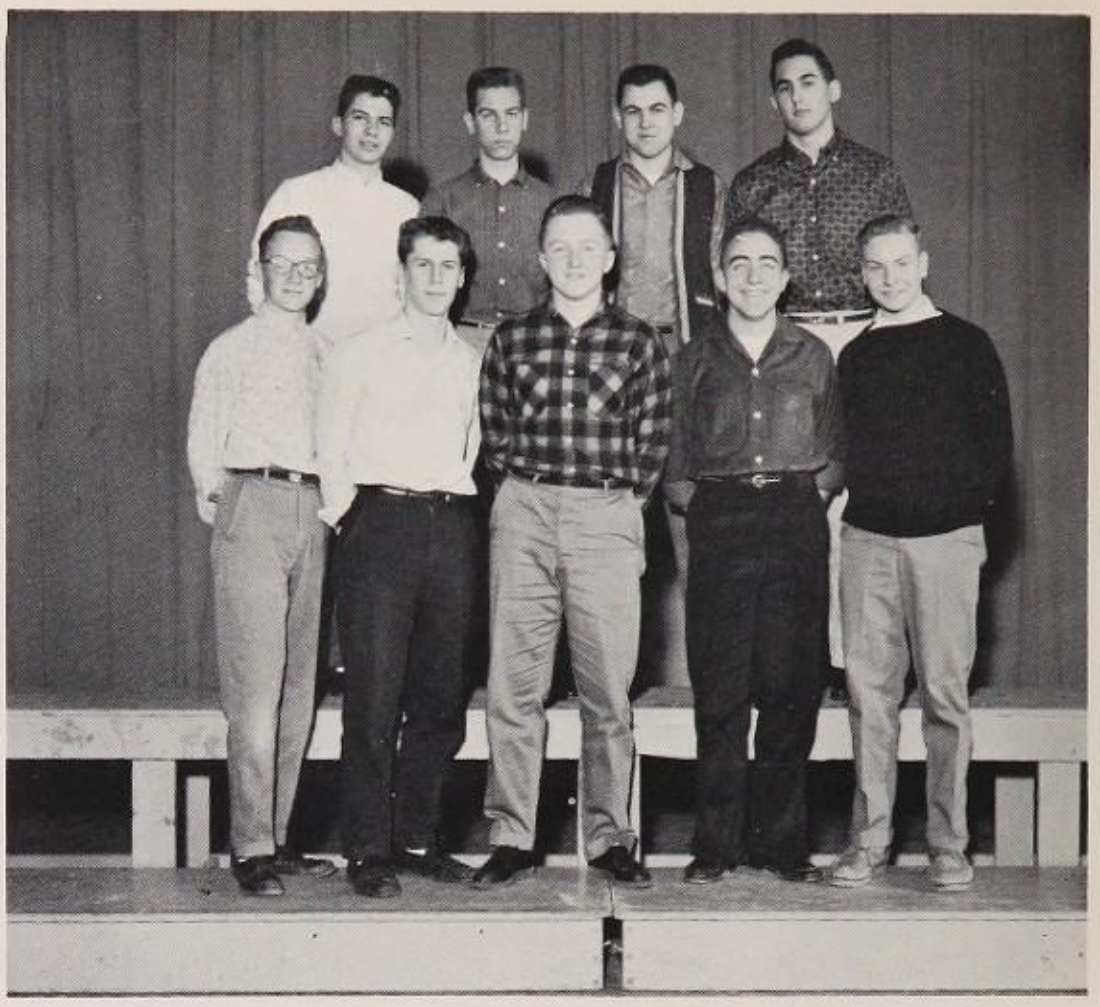
Tech Club

Although the membership of the Tech Club perhaps constitutes the smallest of any school group, they have always proved ready to assist in the many productions given through the years at Arlington High School. In those years, the technically minded students of this organization have cooperated in the production of the annual plays, lectures, movies, assemblies and concerts in our school, and have provided the touch of romance at our proms with their wire wizardry. Under fine leadership, the club has been trained in the use of the most modern visual, public address, recording and lighting equipment. Thoroughly skilled in their techniques, the club not only aids the school, but the members are learning information which will be valuable to themselves, personally, later in life.



First Row: D. Orcutt, E. Varney, K. Smith, W. White, D. Silber. Second Row: R. Mackey, R. Vaeth, H. Clark, J. Zeleznick.

Radio Club

First Row: H. Clark, W. White, K. Smith, D. Silber, D. Orcutt. Second Row: R. Logan, A. Olheiser, J. Zeleznick, A. Acker, C. Stampf.

The activities of the Arlington High School Radio Club range from the learning of radio theory to the construction of radio equipment. The club members' main objective is to obtain Amateur Radio Operator's Licences. To help the boys toward their goal the club conducts classes in radio theory and Morse code, two essentials to the radio amateur. Added to this the boys have opportunities to build and repair the various types of equipment that they will someday use to operate their own stations.

Keeping Arlington in tune with the world provides interesting experiences for the club members, as they are able to find new friends the world over.

This organization operates under the competent direction of Mr. Kenneth Folster of the Liberal Arts Department, who operates a radio station of his own.

Photo Club

The extensive collection of prints belonging to the Arlington High School Photograph Club covers a wide range of subjects, from informal snapshots of classes and activities, to portraits of teachers and administrators. This variety attests to the skill and dramatic instinct of the club members. The work seems an endless and often exasperating chore, but the photographers usually "develop" satisfactory results. The long hours spent in developing, enlarging, and printing, are known only to the members of the group; the public sees only the finished product. Small in size, but large in responsibility, the organization has the job of making our yearbook a more vital reminder of our school life.

They practice their trades faithfully.

The National Emblem of the Future Farmers of America is a composite of five symbols representing the function of the organization in training young men for agricultural leadership. The owl symbolizes knowledge and wisdom; the plow—labor in the soil; the rising sun—progress and the new days when all farmers are trained and have learned to cooperate; the cross section of the ear of corn, native to our country and raised in every state—agricultural interests common to all; and the eagle—the national scope of membership.

Library Club

They keep the keys of knowledge.

Books, books, books! Do you know that our library contains 5000 books? The Library Club under the direction of Miss Clow, collects, stamps, and shelves books, a job often taken for granted by those who frequently visit the library. Filing, mending books, and performing the duties necessary to insure an efficient library are all a part of the staff member's job. Homeroom representatives, who help collect books, are also a part of the library's system. Because of the staff's capable service, the student body benefits whenever it uses the facilities of the library.

Jane Wixon takes time out from her typing to check on a book for David Parrish. Jane has become a valuable aid in the library by helping to clear away the large amount of clerical work which accumulates.

Arlington Athletic Association

A. H. S. students foster athletics.

Under the capable supervision of the Arlington Athletic Association, the school's complete athletic year follows a smooth course. They are responsible for the purchasing and maintenance of all sports equipment, the smooth running of local competitions at Riverview Field and the Arlington gymnasium, and the paving of athletic expenses.

Each year in the fall its officers are elected by the entire student body. These officers assist Coach Jordan, Mrs. Ranucci, and Miss Cooke in the selling and handling of A.A.A. tickets. The sale of these tickets to interested sports fans in the Arlington School District finances the year's program.

The A.A.A. has carried out its functions and made sports a valuable asset to the school's program this year as in the preceding years.

B. Ireland executes effective stiff-arm against R.H.S. foe.

Hard work, team spirit, and excellent support boosted the A.H.S. gridders to the best record since 1954, 5 wins and 2 losses. The season opened with a solid victory over Liberty and was highlighted by decisive victories over Roosevelt, Saugerties and C.F.M.A. The losses to strong Highland and Beacon squads were hard-fought contests. The season closed with a glorious triumph over our arch-rival, Wappingers. As a result of their outstanding records, captains Don Marchese and Barry Ireland won nominations to the All-County First Squad.

"Fight, team, fight!" This is the familiar cry of our cheerleaders as they cheer Arlington's team to another victory. Led by Kathy Cowles and Ginny Cook, the girls personify the best in A.H.S. Having already spent time on the Junior Varsity Squad, the girls are primed and ready for the task of leading Arlington fans in the cheers familiar to all of us. Good sportsmanship and athletic ability contribute greatly to th enatural ability of the cheerleaders of A.H.S.

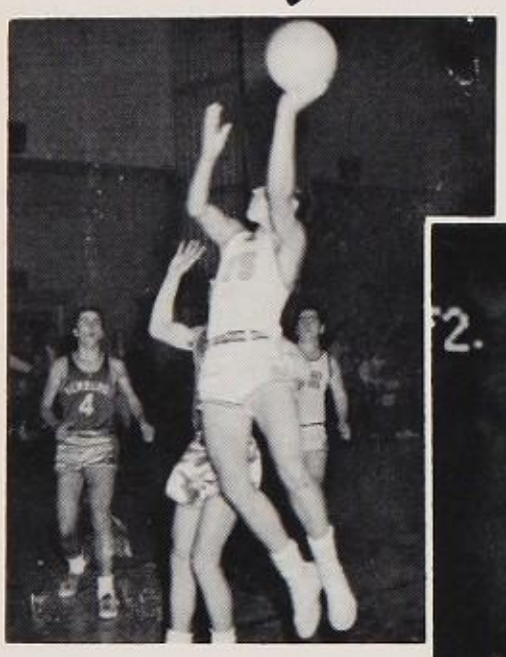
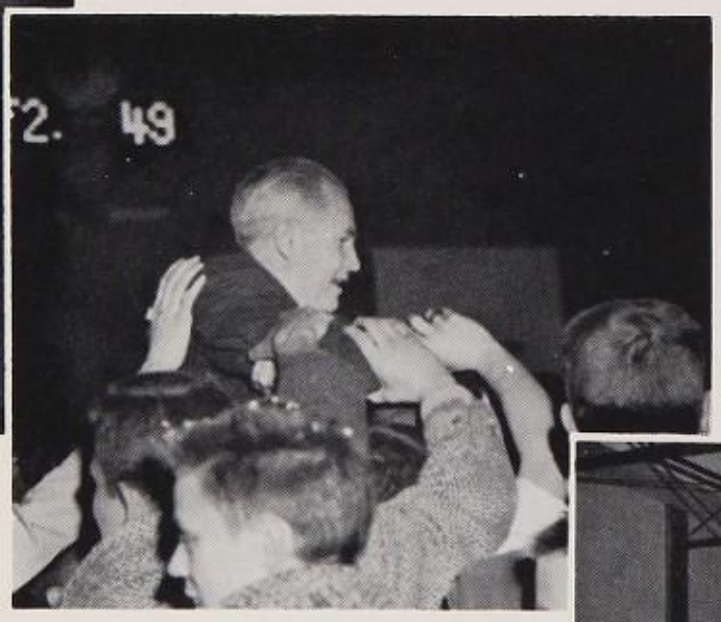
Varsity Basketball

A.H.S. five shoots way toward championship.



Again our star, M. Savino, scores the vital 2 points.



It's a free ride for Coach Jordan as jubilant fans carry him on their shoulders following our victory in the championship playoff game against Saugerties.

Get that rebound, Alex! A. Credle jumps to grab the ball while "Mighty Mickey" and B. McRitchie stand ready to take off down the court.

After dropping two of the first three games, Arlington went on to win eleven straight, to tie with Saugerties for first place. In the playoff, the Maroons, with a new defense, stopped the Sawyers 72-49. The season ended with a 15-5 record, the fifth defeat inflicted by a powerful Pleasantville team in the section playoffs. Mighty Mickey Savino was named "outstanding player of 1960". Also cited were Weisberg and Crum.

J.V. Basketball

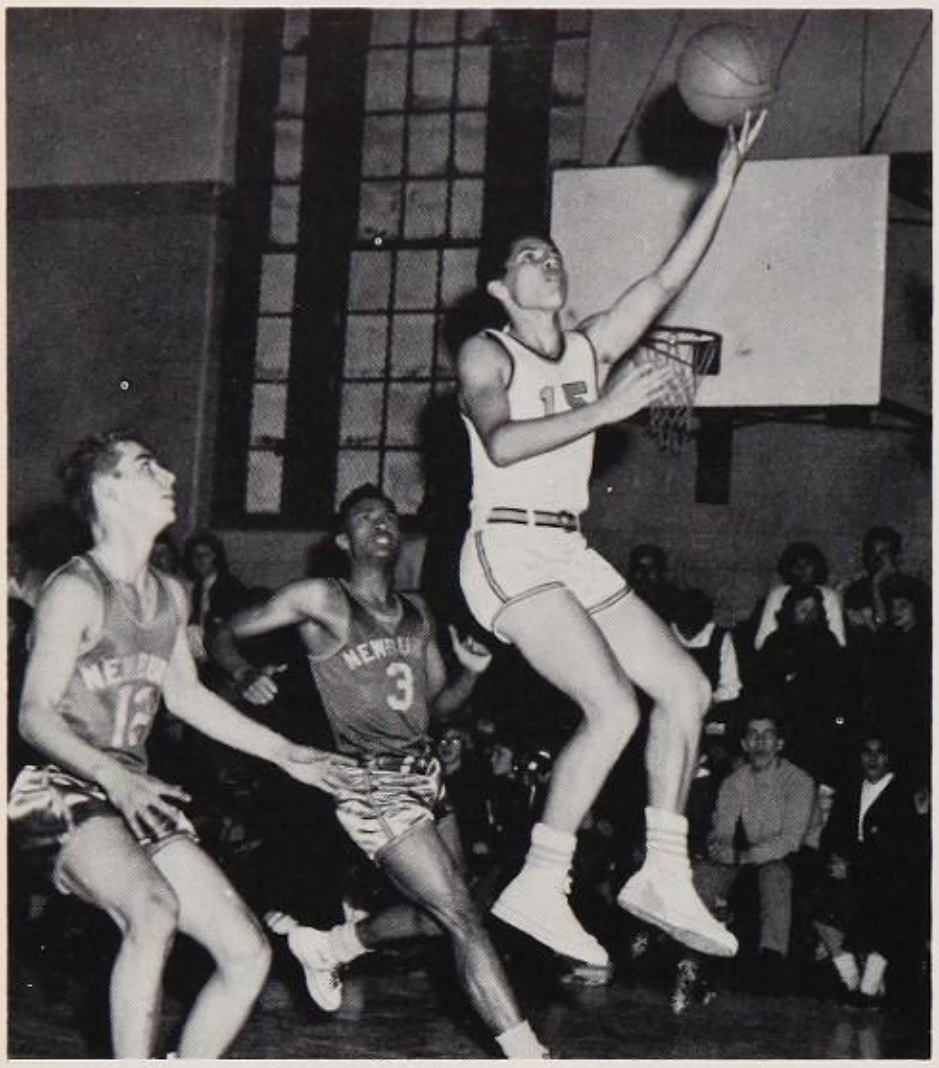
Arlington is on top again as Alex Credle goes for the ball from center to start off another game.

Savino jumps to score again.

"Swish"—hopes rise for another basket.

Before each varsity game Arlington's spirit was aroused by a fighting J.V. squad. Under the leadership of Mr. King and Captain Barry Paquet, the team completed a fine season with a 15-3 record, finishing second in league play. They bowed only to a very strong Beacon team in league competition. Each one of the members of this powerful team promises to be a great asset to future varsity teams.



Here are the boys of our Freshman Basketball Team, destined to become the junior varsity and varsity stars of Arlington. Coached by Mr. Fogden, the boys learn the rules of the game as well as the values of teamwork and sportsmanship. Their diligent efforts and unfailing spirit combined to give them a season of 7 victories against 7 defeats, certainly a commendable record for a group of boys on their first attempt at team play.

Early experience benefits A.H.S. teams.

Golf

It's "tee-time for Tyson" as A. Credle and J. Hornick prepare to swing at the golf ball.

Every day the members of the golf team journey to Baired park to practice and perfect their game. Under the direction of Mr. May, the players become skilled in the game and enter competitions to demonstrate their dexterity. Golf requires patience and determination which our A.H.S. team possesses.

When fall arrives, a band of hooded boys may be seen, running, even on the coldest days, in the vicinity of Arlington High School. These boys, whose dream is to surpass the magic figure of 15 minutes around the course known familiarly as "Big Burma", comprise our school's cross country team. Though eclipsed at times as a fall sport by football, the members of the team do their utmost in order to excel in their regular meets, and at the culmination of the season, in the Westchester intersectionals.

Cross Country

First Row: D. White, F. Lawateh, R. Betes, G. Wade, J. DeGaetano, D. Parrish, R. Ramage, E. Varney. Second Row: M. Gemmel, S. Moysey, D. Spenser, R. Zeil, R. Tator, W. Cummings, C. Rathkopf, R. Track

March comes, and with it a renewed flutter of activity as tracksuits and running flats are taken out of mothballs, and the discus and shotput requisitioned. The outburst of energy signals the start of another season of track, one of the most popular sports in the school. The participant may enter the broad jump, high jump, pole vault, discus or shotput events, according to his physical capabilities. The season ends with the intersectional where our boys compete on a state-wide basis.

First Row: J. Rumble, M. SaVino, G. VanVoorhis, Coach Jordan, E. Duplessis, J. Slocum, A. Crum. Second Row: D. Haight, N. Baitinger, B. Green, B. Hollingsworth, W. MacRitchie, F. Abbot, L. Weisberg, R. Stearns, D. Marchese, D. Railing, M. Moyer, W. Bruce.

Varsity Baseball

The bat swings and the ball soars as another season opens for Arlington's Varsity Baseball team. Their early practices improve their technique and find a reward on the baseball diamond as they compete for the championship.

A.H.S. nines look to successful season.

J.V. Baseball

New talent and sports enthusiam are found to be typical for tbis year's Junior Varsity team. They work hard to prove their ability as individuals and as a team. Win or lose, their spirit never lags.

First Row: M. Meyers, G. Anderson, G. Ireland, B. Blake, F. Reilly, W. Davison. Second Row: A. Starr, M. Laffin, W. VanBenschoten, G. Livingston, B. Paquet, L. Stanszak, W. VanBenschoten, L. Stoutenburgh, J. Horvath, Coach Byrne.

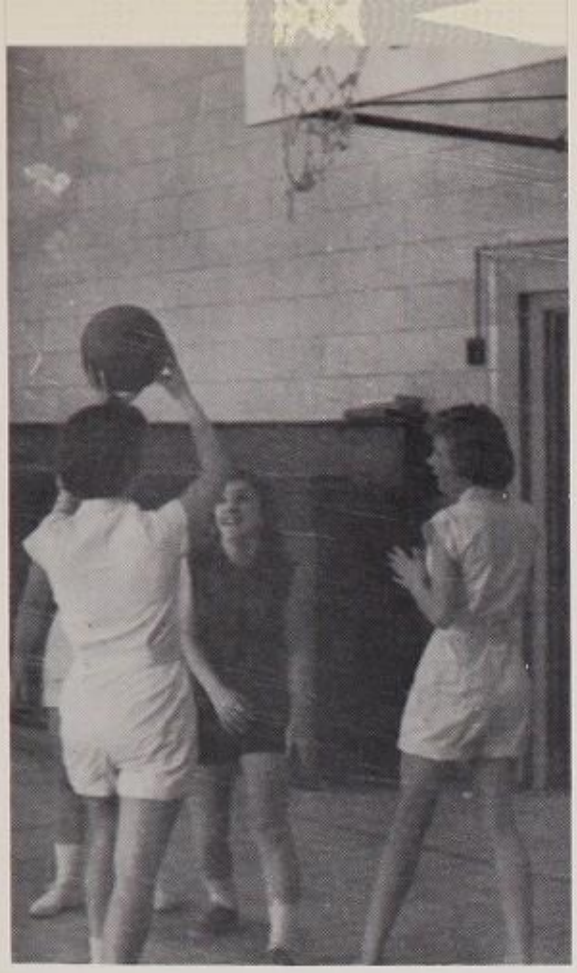
Leaders Club

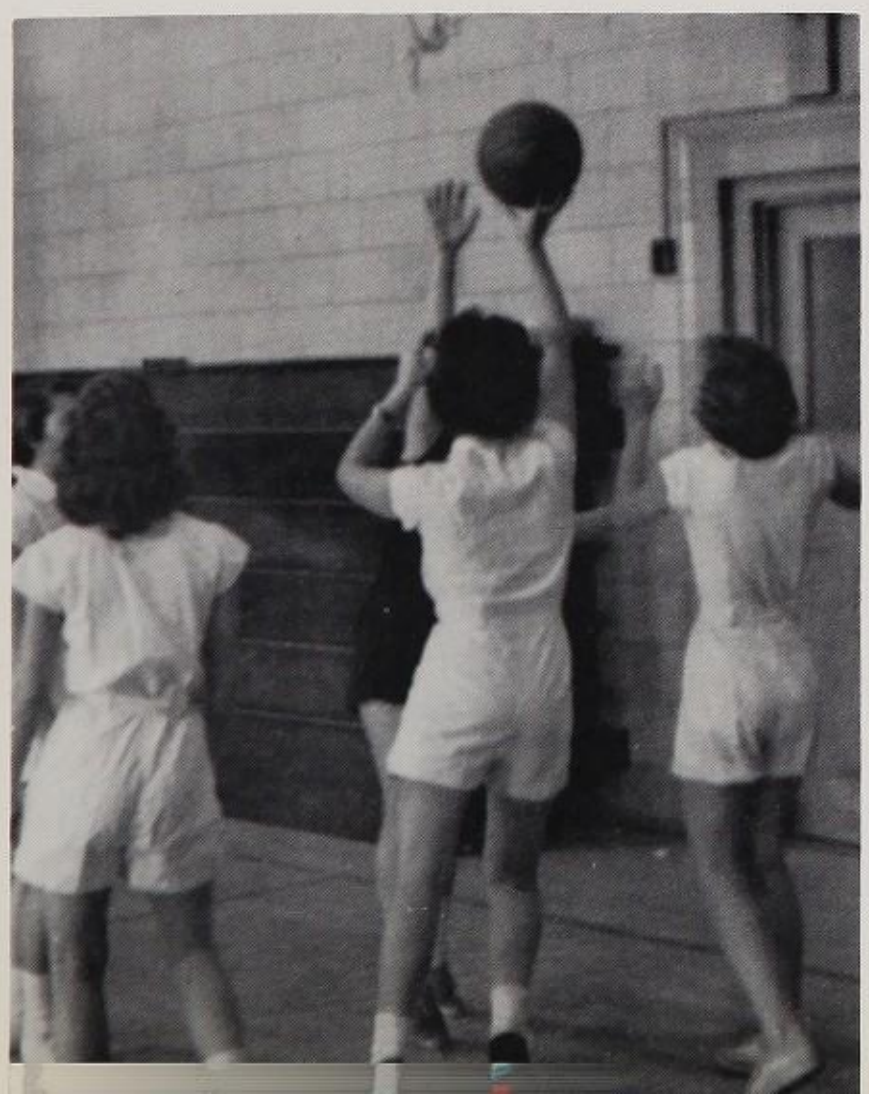


M. Yamen tries unsuccessfully to prevent B. Brownell from scoring while K. Wadsten prepares to grab the rebound.

V. Gardner, C. Corbin, and B. Brownell demonstrate a scene which is not unusual in the girls' locker room.

Girls' Sports

Another basket is in the making as the Leaders' Club girls engage in an intramural game.

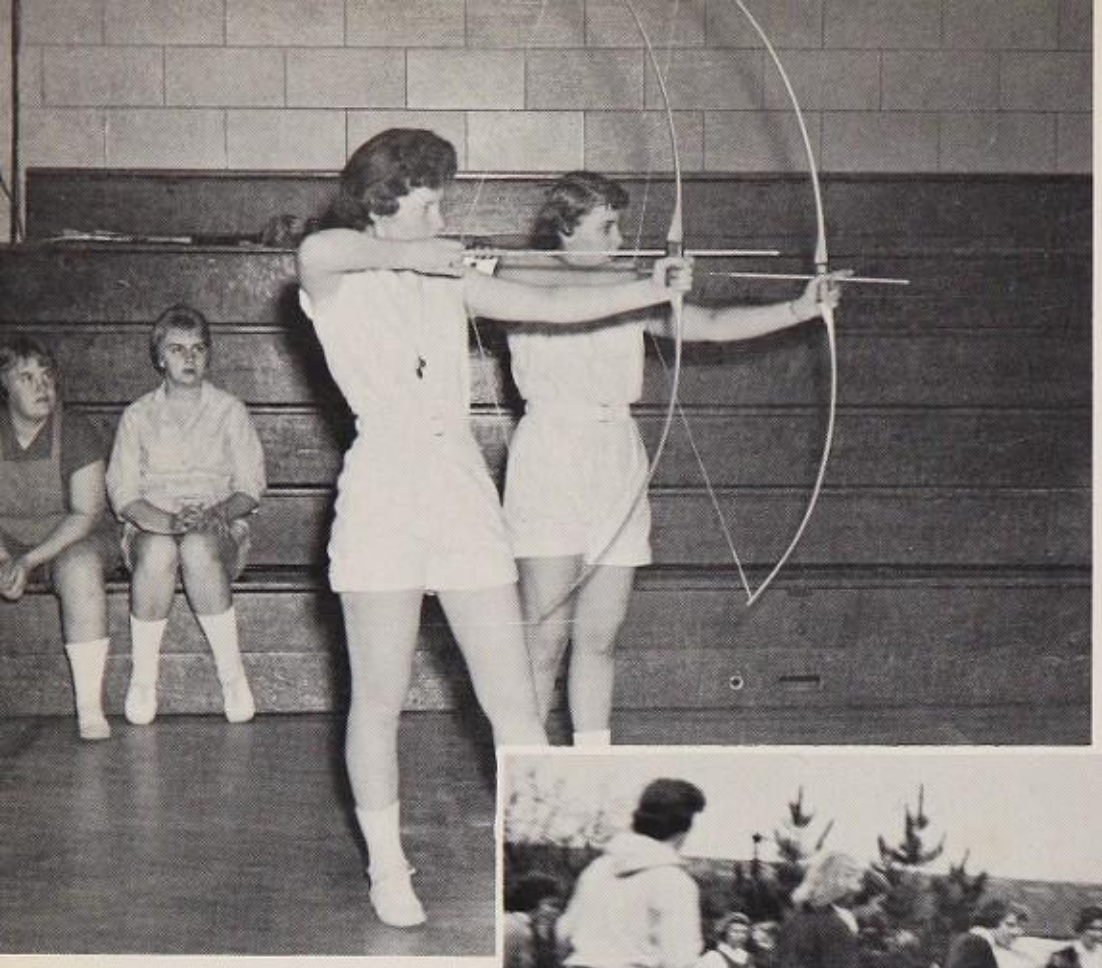


On Tuesday and Friday afternoons, in the chilly fall and blustery spring, two hundred girls can be found out on the field. "Play your position" and "Stay on the base" are the shouts often echoed by the soccer and softball captains.

Sixteen pairs of eyes follow the path of the "misguided missile".

Girls' Sports

As winter approaches, the girls' sports are moved into the gym. Here interested girls may participate in many varied sports, including volleyball, basketball, archery, and ping pong. The games are supervised by members of the Leaders' Club under the direction of Mrs. Ranucci and the girls' efforts are rewarded by sports letters.



Amateur Robin Hoods B. Chambers and S. Baright practice in the gym.

Fall finds the girls playing lively games of soccer at the end of which the bruises outnumber the goals.

S. Baright and B. Brownell practice a little friendly fighting amid cries of "Watch the shins!"

An active game of volleyball has just gotten under way in one of the many after-school sessions.

B. Brownell and J. Freer enjoy softball!

Where there is much desire to learn, there, in necessity, will be much arguing, much writing, many opinions, for opinions in good men are but knowledge in the making.

The model of our ring, featured at the tradition-setting Ring Dance, is being built by Mr. Baker's classes, here represented by E. Young and L. Stanszak.

The line forms on the right as fifth period finds Mrs. Rightmeyer and Mrs. Santiamo serving lunch to those hungry Juniors and Seniors

Two silhouettes in the gym! J. Cowles helps with the decorations for "The Big Hurt", the Sophomore Class dance.

More shelves and files and magazine racks needed! Miss Clow discusses with Mr. Storm and the architects plans for the library of the new school.

"With Barrett's Bushwackers behind us, we're bound to win!" And we did!

A typical fifth period lunch hour ends with a mad rush for lockers and classes.

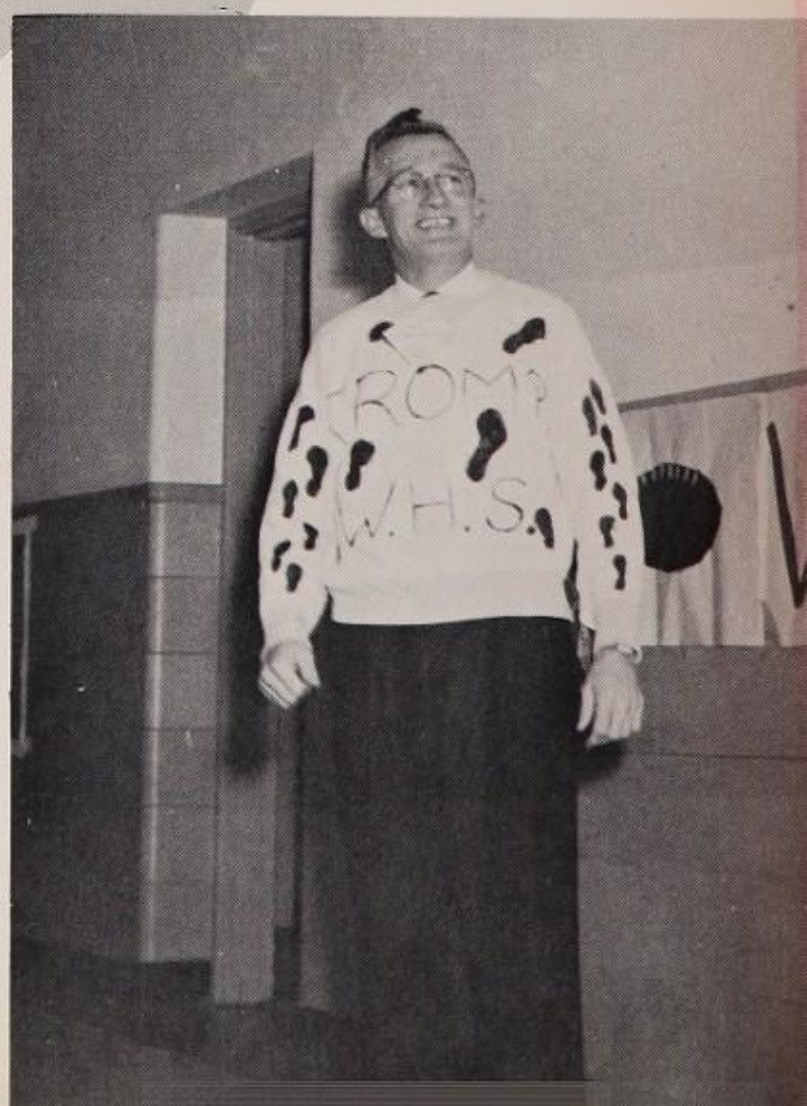
Mr. Nelson is not immune to the contagious spirit of the Arlington fans before the game with Wappingers.



Seniors

There are some things which cannot be learned quickly, and time, which is all we have, must be paid heavily for their acquiring; they are the very simplest things and because it takes a man's life to know them, the little new that each man gets from life is very costly and the only heritage he has to leave.

Here we find the military and civilian represented in the Grand March of "Silver Bells". K. Duffy and G. Nazzaro are handsomely escorted for this gala occasion.

"There she is, Miss Arlington 1960". K. Duffy plays the part of the happy regent at the Senior Prom. B. Virgilio looks as proud as does our queen.

Senior Prom

The "morning after" finds Cinderalla's slippers replaced by the old stand-bys. K. Duffy still looks starry-eyed as she takes a last look at the glitter of her court.

Honor Keys

At the annual Honor Key Assembly on March 30, twenty-nine seniors received the coveted award. The day represented for these students a culmination of three and one-half years' effort. These were suspenseful moments as Mr. Storm called off the names and averages, one by one. As each name was heard, the seniors all anxiously waited, hoping that theirs would be next. But honor keys are not won by wishful thinking and short spurts of frantic academic enthusiasm, as Valedictorian Dorothy Speckenbach and Salutatorian June Aaron can confirm. The knowledge gained during these years is knowledge which will serve time and again in the years to come.

Superintendent of Schools Storm congratulates Dorothy Speckenbach, Valedictorian, and June Aaron, Salutatorian, for their commendable work during 3 1/2 years work at A.H.S.

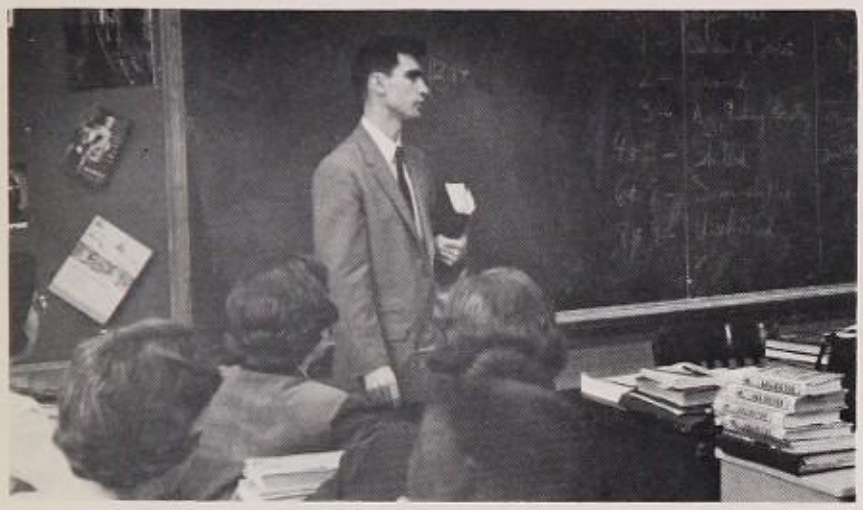
Seniors at work and play

Seniors have skeletons in their closets, too!

Piles of books, cluttered trays, and noisy conversation fill the cafeteria as seniors gather during their fifth period lunch hour.



The discussion led by Mr. Frattali concerns the major project of Business English students — the outlining of their vocational essays.

L. Fleishman offered H. Weiss the first cup of punch when seniors served as hostesses and guides at the Annual Open House.

World Lit students know that "7/8 of the iceberg lies—" in the intensive research necessary for a good Senior Essay.

Not the Witches' Scene from MacBeth, but a phsysics lab session with Mr. Smith demonstrating to the class.

Epilogue

Another year has been completed, another graduation is upon us. The class of '60 will leave the halls of Arlington High School to part and to proceed along the different paths of life. Yet this year, like all the years of the past and all the years of the years of the future, has been filled with the acquisition of knowledge, plus the fun we had in achieving it. We cannot relive these good times; they are but memories. We can only look back by turning the pages of our yearbook, each page reminding us of four of our happiest years.

Though we of the 1960 Anchors staff have worked hard, our effort would have been futile without the cooperation of the many people who have worked with us so willingly. We wish to thank Mr. John Freni for taking the senior portraits and for posing the class and club pictures. To Mr. Stewart, we extend our sincere appreciation for helping the inexperienced photography staff. We are extremely grateful to all the teachers, who each in their own way, added to the completion of our yearbook.

Without the many contributions of our patrons and the Board of Education, the publication of this yearbook would have been impossible.

Words cannot express how immeasurably grateful we are to Miss Antoinette Vanasco, our faculty advisor, who was always present when we needed her. Her invaluable role in the publication of this book is impossible to estimate. We'll always remember the contribution of her knowledge and experience to the making of our yearbook.

Now, each one of us will leave the familiar classes of A.H.S. to take our places in the wide, wide world. Our journey is over; many more will follow the paths we have left behind. To our successors we say_____

YOU MAKE YEARBOOKS FUN

HERE AT PROGRESS

"The City of Albany"

Working closely with you has been truly a wonderful experience. In the beginning there was nothing except enthusiasm, ideas and many blank pages. Upon this meager foundation you have built this beautiful memory book. Our work at Progress really is fun . . . because we enjoy, so much, getting to know such splendid faculty members and students as you.
